Theatre Action Project Invites Community to 4th Annual Youth Arts Festival

The Theatre Action Project (TAP) hosts the 4th Annual Youth Arts Festival, featuring artwork and performances of theatre, dance, visual art, film, and music by TAP's youth artists from its middle and high school programs. The free community event will be held on Saturday, May 21st, at the Boyd Vance Theatre located at the George Washington Carver Museum and Cultural Center.

"The Youth Arts Festival is a pivotal link between dreams and reality," said Aron Taylor, TAP Teaching Artist and Festival Producer. "Each student participating in this event brings to attention the heart and dedication required to achieving success."

"This festival showcases the early development of tomorrow's artists," Taylor said. "And because the festival is free and open to the public, we can share this inspiration to everyone in a fun and spectacular way."

The Youth Arts Festival will feature performances from the Ann Richards School for Young Women Leaders, Bedichek Middle School, Decker Middle School, Del Valle Middle School, Garcia Middle School, Manor Middle School, Manor New Tech High School, Mendez Middle School, Ojeda Middle School, and Webb Middle School. The showcase will be immediately followed by a carnival, with special guest youth artists from the surrounding area providing music and fun activities.

Admission is free with performances from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The George Washington Carver Museum and Cultural Center is located at 1165 Angelina Street. For more information, call Theatre Action Project at (512) 442-8773.
